

An admissibility decision is a decision to exclude a complaint from the Service Complaints system.

The Service Complaints Ombudsman for the Armed Forces (SCOAF) has the power to review these decisions and make a final decision about whether the complaint should be accepted into the system.

Admissibility decisions are made at the initial stage of the complaints process and also at the appeal stage.

SCOAF can review both types of admissibility decisions.

When can I make an an admissibility decision?

If a decision was made that your complaint or appeal was application for a review of inadmissible and you think it was wrong, you can make an application to SCOAF to review the decision.

Applications must be made within 4 weeks and 2 days from the date the decision letter was emailed or posted to you. If your application is late, it may not be accepted.

If you need further information, or assistance to complete this form, please phone 0300 369 0689 or email contact@scoaf.org.uk.

This could include providing information in plain language or a different format.

You can find more information about reasonable adjustment on our website.

Do you need us to make any reasonable adjustments?

Section 2 – What decision do you want reviewed?

Please complete all fields in this section

What part/s of your complaint were ruled inadmissible?

Don't restate your entire complaint here. Briefly state what was ruled inadmissible. For example: 'My complaint about my SJAR was ruled out of time because it happened 12 months ago'.

Why do you think these parts of your complaint should be admissible?

This is about why you think the decision was incorrect. If a part of your complaint was ruled out of time, why do you think it was 'in time'? If a part of your complaint was ruled an excluded matter, why do you think it isn't? If your request for an appeal wasn't accepted, why do you think it should have been?
